

ARE LIFE-
STYLE DRUGS
REIMBURSED?

Life-style drugs
are those that primarily aim to increase the quality of life.

For example, they are products that

- are used to lose weight, control appetite or to regulate body weight
- are used to quit smoking
- improve hair growth
- treat erectile dysfunction and
- increase sexual potency.

Life-style drugs are
excluded from coverage
by SHI funds and thus reimbursement,...

because the use or need for these products is largely determined by someone's life-style. Thus, it is considered
appropriate that people themselves are responsible for their funding.

Appendix II of the drug directive lists all life-style drugs, which are excluded from reimbursement.
